Thank you for your assistance.

To retire a routing number through Accuity, the financial institution must also retire the number with the Federal Reserve Bank. All transactions (Check, ACH and wires) should cease. The routing number is considered "active" until it is retired by Accuity, the official Routing Number Registrar. Once retired, the number(s) will be published as a retired ABA in the Key To Routing Numbers book.

PLEASE NOTE: Retired routing numbers are eligible for reassignment.
